I was trying to write one this morning too, without much luck. Trying to frame it around notions like conspiracy as a different way to think about it

Dans view when he called me yesterday to complain about the paragraph was that it should have three themes: 1 receipt of illegal contributions and luxury travel 2 concealment and papering 3 culminated in TCO

Not that we have to propose that, but my personal preference would just be to delete the first paragraph. I think that purpose Dan Rob and Lara (or some of them) think it serves is to highlight themes.

I'm fine with that. My separate thought is we did a lot of gymnastics around the influence point and maybe making him the one exploiting the corrupt relationship works better.
